

A PEACEFUL OUTLOOK.

The Presence of Troops Awaits the Hostile Strikers.

THE WAR IN COLORADO ENDED.

General Brooks Arrives on the Scene in Time to Prevent a Conflict—No Disorder in Ohio—West Virginia Troops Ordered Out.

CRIPPLE CRUISE, June 8.—At noon yesterday General Brooks, at the head of the state troops, intercepted the strikers on the east slope of Carbonate hill and ordered Sheriff Bowers to send them back to camp in Beaver park. Only a few moments of parleying took place, during which Brooks ordered Bowers that unless he sent his men back to camp he (Brooks) would take them back. The state troops made remarkable quick time up the east side of Cow mountain and headed General Adams and his company of deputies just as they were taking up their position on the northeast side of Grassy Gulch preparatory to opening fire on Bull Mountain, three-fourths of a mile away to the west of the Carbonate hill. The militia held the key to the situation and they are camped at the head of Grassy Gulch, in full view of the strikers' fortifications. A telephone line was laid to the general's killing for purposes to connect with Bull Hill.

Then last experience of the deputies with the militia probably ended the struggle. General Brooks has absolute control of the situation. No one orders are for the state troops to prevent a meeting of the miners and deputies. The greater portion of the deputies will, probably be sent home today, as the backbone of the strike is broken.

The excellent conduct of the state troops, acting upon the police order of General Brooks, has greatly tempered the animosity that the deputies and the strikers have felt toward each other, and the chances for a conflict are more remote than for any time since the strike arrived. The militia, from its position between the two armies has moved so as to prevent either side making an attack and they have executed their orders in such a political manner that they have won the regard of the strikers. Several times the deputies began an advance, but were cut off by the troops. At the time General Brooks rode down the front of the deputies and the strikers and made a speech which was well received. When the deputies then moved forward, the strikers were ordered to stand back.

Third parties have at all times been desirous of preventing a conflict between the strikers and the deputies. It is not to be expected that the strikers will be ordered to stand back. The great work of General Brooks has been to prevent a conflict between the strikers and the deputies. The strikers have been ordered to stand back. The great work of General Brooks has been to prevent a conflict between the strikers and the deputies.

This is the situation at the point where General Brooks and the troops are located. At the other end of the strike, the strikers are ready to fire upon the strikers. The strikers are ordered to stand back. The great work of General Brooks has been to prevent a conflict between the strikers and the deputies.

General Brooks had a conference with the strikers last night. He has accepted their surrender, but did not demand that the strikers would surrender Bull Hill, as he has to keep back the strikers. Many of the strikers have been ordered to stand back.

There has been no destruction of property attempted, save that probably several hundred barrels of coal thrown off at Scott's mine were burned to furnish light and heat for the strikers who hovered around it.

LITCHING IN MARYLAND.

Wherever Litching, Chopped in the City, Sent Down by a Mob.

PANAMA, Md., June 8.—Litching, the colored man who was the manager and the one who got the litching, was shot and killed by a mob of about twenty-five men. The litching was chopped in the city and sent down by a mob.

Thursday twelve colored men, among them Kemp, were brought to jail, charged with the murder of Edward Carter, in Dublin, at Charles Miller's liquor store, on Wednesday night. Kemp, being the leader, was confined in a separate cell and charged to the floor.

Jailer Dryden was awakened by some one calling his name, and on going to the door was met by two men who said they had a prisoner. As he opened the door the mob rushed into the hall. Dryden, with Sheriff Sterling and an attendant named Gibbons who had been attracted by the noise, were pinioned. Demanding the keys of the jail, and being refused, they battered the door down.

They again asked for the keys to the cells and also demanded that Kemp be released out to them, threatening to kill every prisoner in the jail until they had accomplished their purpose. After a few minutes they found Kemp and shot at him three times through the grating of the door. They then proceeded down the stairs to the jailer's private room, and after a thorough search found the keys, and with a hurried rush returned to the jail, where they opened the door and released the prisoner's body with bullets. About fifty shots being fired.

OLD PEOPLE OF 30.

Streets of Middletown Show Many Examples.

Aged Faces, Nervous Movements of Young Women.

The Driving Pace of Work and Pleasure.

REVIVAL OF THE OLD IDEAL OF STRENGTH AND HEALTH.

Vigor That Comes from the Proper Course.

Young folks must have strength, above everything.

This good old-fashioned belief is taking firm hold.

It is no longer fashionable even for "dudes" and "swells" to be pale, thin, sickly. Among young ladies, too, the languor and nervous timidity at one time though "interesting" has given place to a desire for ruddy cheeks, strength of body, a firm, transparent skin, and clear, well opened eyes.

Young men and young women in Middletown are taking Paine's celery compound.

Parents recommend it from long experience; physicians prescribe it where purer blood and stronger nerves are urgently needed.

Growing girls, colorless, bloodless, nervous, thin, find a quick gain in weight, clearness of skin and strength.

Tired, weak, sickly women, who look like hospital phantoms, get rid of distressing nervousness, neuralgia, rheumatism, and "tagged out" feelings by taking this marvelous blood and nerve remedy in the early summer.

Dyspepsia should now take courage. The achievements of modern medical science have placed new and wonderful resources in the hands of medicine and replaced the necessity for drugs. Paine's celery compound makes pure, sturdy blood that reaches every tiny muscle and nerve-fiber in the body, and builds up strong, healthy tissues and drives out diseases from heart, liver, kidneys and stomach.

Tired women get strength from Paine's celery compound.

Bus men, brain workers, and constant in door dwellers secure increased appetite and a more complete digestion and assimilation from this great strengthener and invigorator.

Paine's celery compound means a return to sound health, a fling out of the thin body with firm flesh, bright eyes, red, pure blood, and quiet, healthy nerves to thousands of anxious, sickly men and women, who are plainly losing strength and hope every day.

Paine's celery compound cures diseases of the nerves and blood and the worst disorders of the liver, kidneys and stomach, where everything else fails. Paine's celery compound is to the sick better than a vacation in June,—and both are good.

THE PRESIDENT COMING TO MIDDLETOWN.

The sick may receive medical services free of charge.

The President and members of the European and American Staff of German, English, Irish, Scandinavian and American Doctors of New York city will be at the Russell House, Middletown, on one day only. The sick and afflicted may consult them without charge during their stay.

If you are incurable they will tell you, therefore invalids must not take offense if they are rejected, as no case will be accepted unless there is a moral certainty of a cure being effected. These Doctors are graduates of the best universities of Europe and America; they are of the highest standing in the medical profession and have had unlimited experience in the treatment of all Chronic Diseases and Deformities. As the latest methods, instruments and appliances of the various schools of both the Old and the New World are familiar to and at the command of this staff of doctors, it is reasonable to believe that in ninety cases out of every hundred a cure can be effected, even when the patients have been given up as incurable by doctors who have had less experience. Do not be discouraged because your doctor cannot give you relief, or even if he tells you that you cannot get well, for it matters not what your disease may be, you can consult the doctors free, and, if curable, they will treat you; if incurable, they will give you such advice as will tend to prolong life and afford you the greatest relief. The doctor will visit Middletown one day each month. Office hours from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m.

Shedrows Have Used It With Success.

C. L. Seaver of Birmingham, Conn., suffered from Bright's disease and rheumatism near the heart. "My attending physician," said Mr. Seaver, "told me to I could not live. I then asked him if he thought Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy would help me; he said he had heard it well spoken of and that I had better try it. The result was I am sound and well to-day and what's more, I have since then recommended it to upwards of 300 people, and I have yet to find a person it has not helped."

It's a remedy that appeals to the common sense of people by striking at the root of the disease; life and health will not permit of trifling. Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy cures a cure is a possible. Physicians prescribe it and all medicine dealers sell.

MY HEART'S DELIGHT.

There never lived a painter who her beauties could trace.
The verse was never uttered that could tell their perfections true.
I always dream of flowers when I look upon her face.
So softly and so sweetly.
No rose so pink and white.
The buds must pipe in music
To sing my heart's delight.
Her locks are like the sunbeams that the summer fairy weaves.
Her voice recalls the music of the wind among the sheaves.
Her footsteps fall like rose leaves beneath my cottage eaves.
There is a spell about her.
Her beauty haunts my sight.
I could not live without her.
My heart's heart's delight.
The balm of spring is on her lips there's summer in her smile.
Her gentle glance reveals a heart that never knew a wile.
And yet the smile on her cheek a hermit would beguile.
May fortune e'er smile o'er her.
I'd die for her tonight.
I live but to adore her.
My heart's heart's delight.

CRANDALL'S MARCH.

Tom Crandall, the orderly sergeant of Company I, was a fine soldier and a fine fellow as well, but he was something of a martinet—hardly popular among the members of his own company.
When orders were issued to have the men thoroughly drilled, Orderly Tom obeyed most literally. From reveille to tattoo it was drill, drill, drill for the boys of Company I till they would have welcomed marching orders for the north pole as a release from the manual of arms and evolutions.
Nothing less than a surgeon's order would serve with Orderly Tom as an excuse from drill.
One afternoon, when the company had fallen in, the roll call revealed the absence of Thomas Higgins and William Stapleton. A rigid examination of the company quarters failed to discover the delinquents, and with "absent without leave" against them in the orderly book and a big black mark in Tom's memory the company marched to the drill ground without them.
The quarters of the men were the stables of Snediker's hotel. With 10 full companies to drill, the stable yard, which was the only parade ground within the regimental lines, was totally inadequate; hence all drills in company movements were conducted in a field outside the guard lines.
Sentinels were duly instructed to permit all squads or companies in charge of noncommissioned officers to pass out, but under no other circumstances to allow an enlisted man to leave the camp without a pass, though all soldiers might enter unannounced.
Tom marched his company about a hundred feet from the lines and had just changed direction by the right flank when his quick eye detected the two skulkers stealthily emerging from the quarters of Company H.
"Company, halt!" instantly shouted Tom. "You, Higgins and Stapleton, get your equipments and fall in for drill! Do you hear?"
Evidently they did hear, but instead of obeying both started on the double quick toward the cookhouse.
"In place, rest!" shouted Tom to his company. "Halt, there!" to the skulkers. But they quickened their pace.
Dropping his rifle into the hands of a corporal, Tom started in pursuit. At once the guard lines he sped to the cookhouse, into which the two fugitives had disappeared, and into which he also quickly vanished.
Now, a large portion of the members of Company I were young fellows, ranging from 17 to 23 years of age, little used to military restraints, while the deprivations and dullness which they were experiencing made them peculiarly eager for some sort of fun.
It can be easily conceived that Orderly Tom's unexpected deviation from irksome drill was hailed by the boys of the waiting company with delight. They hoped the race would last long, and that the fugitives would escape.
So they did. After an absence of some 10 minutes Tom reappeared from the cookhouse alone, and with an ominous frown upon his brow approached his command. At the same time the two fugitives were seen far down the road, making their way rapidly toward the town, having left the cookhouse by some way of which Tom knew not.

The almost simultaneous appearance of the defeated orderly and the victorious skulkers was greeted by the boys of the company with first a shout of jeering laughter and then a ringing cheer.
"Attention, company!" shouted the orderly sergeant. But the only attention paid him was another shout of laughter that deepened his frown.
"Stop that laughing in the ranks!" again commanded the orderly.
"Halt!" cried the sentinel, bringing his piece to a charge and confronting Orderly Tom, who had now reached the guard line. "You can't pass here."
"I cannot pass!" gasped the astonished orderly. "Why not?"
"Orders," curtly replied the sentry.
"Order—Well, what are your orders?"
"Oh, you know the orders well enough," answered the sentry—"to let no enlisted man pass out of the camp without a pass except noncommissioned officers in charge of squads for drill."
"Well," exclaimed Tom triumphantly, "I am a noncommissioned officer in command of a company out for drill, and there is my company, as you well know."

"Don't know nothing about that company. It's outside the lines, and you're inside. Don't look much like a company anyhow."

Indeed the sentinel's sarcastic allusion to the company was justified, as the men danced and roared and fairly hugged one another to see the difficulty into which their stern sergeant had fallen. He made no further attempt to cross the lines, but turned and strode swiftly toward headquarters, followed by a fresh burst of derisive laughter from his in-bombardment command.

In a short time he reappeared, and exhibiting a pass to the sentinel advanced toward his demoralized company, and returning his rifle altered the angle word, "At—tention!"
Every face instantly sobered, for every man felt that not only was Tom loquaciously, but that retribution was close at hand. Very quietly he gave the order: "By the right flank! Right face, company! Forward, march!" and retribution began.

It was December. Snow had fallen some days before, then rain, followed by a day or two of unseasonably warm weather. The country roads, tramped by troops of drilling cavalry and plowed by teams and loaded wagons, were all slush, water and very treacherous, deep mud.

Straight to this abominable highway Tom marched Company I. Directly into the middle of the road, where the mud was thickest and the water deepest, the boys wheeled in obedience to his stern command. Then, as unconcernedly as though on the most perfect parade ground in the world, he issued his orders:

"By company, into platoons! Left into line, right! On right, by file into line!" and through all the evolutions.
At one moment Company I charged bayonet down that fearful road at double quick, and another wheeled in circle through slush, while Tom noted defects and corrected them as unconsciously as though on a grassy lawn.

For a full hour and a half, long after recall had sounded, without halt or rest, Tom maneuvered that weary company.
At last, wet, weary and half exhausted, the mud-bellied company was led to quarters by its inexorable commander. Throughout that remarkable drill the only words Tom uttered that indicated the state of his feelings were spoken as he gave the command of dismissal.

"Company, right face!" he ordered. "Attention! When you follow me, world like to discipline again, let me know. Break ranks, march!"
And so ended the proceeding, which was known as "Tom Crandall's march," as long as Company I was an organization.

In the days which followed the boys of Company I came to know their orderly sergeant better and learned to respect and appreciate his military qualities, for if his literal interpretation of orders sometimes tended to their inconvenience it often led to their comfort and well being, and in more instances than one to the preservation of some of their lives.

Poor Tom sleep today in the silent company ground and many of his old companions are with him, but with each returning spring the floral emblems of his surviving comrades are laid upon his grave as tenderly as though that groggy march, of which he was the hero, had never been.—(George H. Bosca in Youth's Companion.)

We feel that as a family remedy for general use Hood's Sarsaparil has no equal. MRS. A. J. PHILLIPS, Milford, N. Y.

It now becomes the duty of every parent, of every taxpayer and every law abiding citizen to join with the people of Benton avenue and help prevent such action, and should such an outrage be perpetrated it would become the duty of everyone to see that the railroad company be made to undo the wrong. What promises to be a curse to our city threatens to be a benefit. Street railroads might be a good servant to Middletown, but would be a bad master. If not restrained it might like an octopus, get us so in its grasp that it will strangle our liberties. The only thing that can prevent this is united public sentiment against high handed violation of law and order that our city officials will be all alive to their duties and responsibilities and that this corporation will realize fully that such an action would be decidedly an unpardonable one to take. As a rule corporations figure right and wrong in dollars and cents and we cannot expect this one to be an exception.

It is not right and never can be right that any street railroad surround the sides of any of our public schools. It is to be regretted that public interests make it necessary to sacrifice
